MUHAMMAD ALI SADPARA

The Pakistani climber Muhammad Ali Sadpara was a high altitude mountain rider from 2 February 1976 until 2021. His first winter climb to the Nanga Parbat peak in 2016 was successfully done by him with the Team (which featured Italy's alpinist Simone Moro). Sadpara climbed eight thousand times in all during the course of his career, four of whom in one calendar year he had climbed. The International Community of Alpine Mountaineers and a hero in Pakistan will remember Sadpara as a versatile climber. He is the only Pakistani to have climbed 8 of the 14 highest mountains in the world and made the world's 9th highest peak, nanga parbat, the first ever winter climb.

Sadpara finished middle school in the hamlet, and his dad, a low level employee of the government, subsequently relocated his family to Skardu, where Sadpara studied high school before he traveled to climb. Due to the financial difficulties of the family, he went up in 2003 or 2004. Instant success with tour operators was due in large part to the successful trips he conducted. In 2016 he made famous all around the globe by becoming the first Nanga Parbat summit in the winter to be a three-man team.

For John Snorri, Muhammad Ali Sadpara has been employed as a high altitude porter and has to comply with his agreement. Nisar Abbas thinks that was only a gimmick. Weeks before that Sadpara had declared his willingness to undertake the attempt following the first winter summit of K2 by a 10 person Nepalese team commanded by the famed Nirmal Purja. Sadpara wanted to try this also, but no oxygen, to create a new record. And when this happened, he also wanted his kid to be there. His son, Sajid, informed the media about 25 or 30 local and foreign climbers, but they all went back before they crossed the 8,000 meter milestone. Sajid himself worsened when they hit the Bottleneck.

About 300 climbers have been to the summit, but in summer or spring they all took on the task. In even better weather, 86 climbers died when trying to spread out the mountain over the Gilgit-Baltistan area of Shigar.

People were looking for a miracle in the region. But considering the difficult environment, little oxygen and low winter temperatures that fall to as low as 180C, the men may have lasted at more than 8,000m for a week, according to his son.

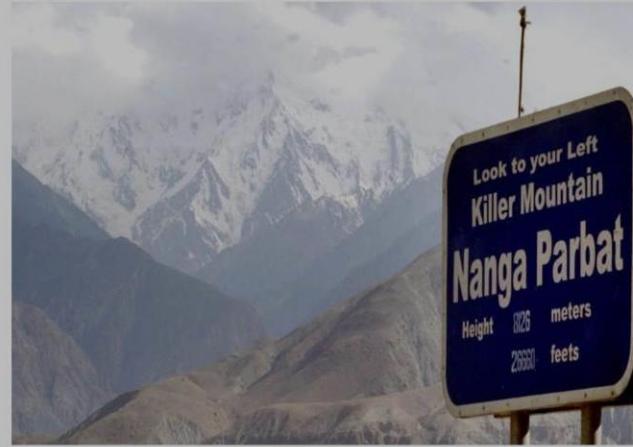

Sajid Sadpara had said to the BBC before, "This didn't occur in the history of climbing therefore we can only look forward to a miracle."

After his father's death on Thursday was officially declared, Sajid vowed to continue following in his footsteps.

WHY WE TRASH OUR OWN COUNTRY

We all get fascinated by nature. Nature mesmerizes all of us and refreshes our minds with beauty. Our country Pakistan is full of such naturally beautiful places. Pakistan is full of breathtaking locations which will make you fall in love with this country. If you are a tourist or love to travel then you must visit beautiful places in Pakistan. Once you visit this country, you will never want to leave it. There are many appealing sites in our country. These sites show our culture and rituals. These sites are the pride of our country. We love not only the urban but also natural places of the country too. Pakistan is full of historical places too.

The Pakistani Nation is, sadly, enveloped in a mixture of political, social and environmental problems. One of the country's major problems concerning specifically the environment is waste management. This is portrayed very clearly in the urban, as well as rural areas, by large, unpleasing lots of accumulating, ever-increasing loads of garbage, which, due to improper ways of disposal, and lack of scientific lines, become breeding points for various disease-causing species.

Change starts with us every year thousands of people's tourist visit northern areas, Murree, Ayubia, Azad Kashmir, also some northwest areas Hunza, Skardu etc. Many families seeking to spend time with their loved ones option to go to a hill station, to look for peace of mind by feeling close to nature. But often the beautiful scenery is interrupted by trash and litter. This trash is the result of families leaving them here and there. This awareness should be brought among people to clean after their mess and not to take this beauty for granted. This beauty is the only reason people come to these areas and this can only be maintained by adopting the habit of cleanliness. The scenery can only be maintained if we take the initiative of picking up our trash after us. Government should take the initiative to bring awareness in people by advertisements to keep environment clean and organizing public waste bins for as many places as can be.

Neither the Government, nor the public can be held completely responsible for garbage accumulation in the country. There should be some Pakistan joined hands with other socially responsible organizations and groups to clean up our beautiful places as part of its anti-litter drive. This article wants to convey the message to all that firstly try to minimize the amount of garbage you produce or try to reuse, if possible, any of the refuse. Now for the big step: before dumping, make sure to classify the different types of garbage. Keep paper separate, plastic separate, wood separate, and so on. In this way you facilitate the landfill management to manage the landfill sites, and control the amount of garbage in the landfills.
